In all major universities, institutions, and corporate training departments the world over, the case study methodology is being used extensively. This methodology, when well employed, not only helps to bring real life experiences into the classroom but also provides the students/employees with the opportunity to hone their decision-making skills. Employing the case study methodology is challenging and the trainer has to be mentored so that he/she can use this method effectively. The Workshop seeks to expose the participants to key aspects of deploying case methodology. The sessions in the workshop will be conducted by eminent trainers from different functional areas with significant experience in using the case study method. The trainers will provide inputs on encouraging students to participate, having a set flow, taking care of the digressers, and also evaluating the students. The ultimate objective is to train the participants in making the case method a great learning experience for the students as well as the instructor.
